Rescuers Report No Survivors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Pan American World Airways jet-liner with 30 persons aboard slammed into the side of a mountain today on the island of Montserrat in the British West Indies.

The Boeing 707 was a Pan American World Airways Clipper flight bound from Martinique to New York with stops in between. It was last heard from on a landing approach to Antigua in the British West Indies.

A CAB spokesman in New York reported that the wreckage was sighted on a hilltop on the island of Montserrat.

The administrator of Montserrat, Dennis Gibbs, told a New York radio station by telephone that search parties had reached the crash scene and "it appears there are no survivors."

Gibbs described the location as a peak in a very difficult area to reach.

Montserrat is about 30 miles southwest of Antigua which is about 1,100 miles southeast of Miami.

The plane was last heard from at 6:25 a.m. (EST), 10 minutes before it was due to land at Antigua, an airline spokesman in New York said.

Three Coast Guard planes and one from the Air Force swept over the area where the big jet was last heard from, between Antigua and Montserrat in the chain of islands which form the eastern border between the Caribbean and Atlantic oceans.

Astronauts, Cosmonauts At Meeting

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Two U.S. astronauts and a Russian cosmonaut embraced today at an informal meeting. It followed Soviet allegations that the Gemini twins had snubbed the Russian cosmonauts.

L. Gordon Cooper Jr., and Charles Conrad Jr., met cosmonaut Pavel Belyayev at the end of an International Astronautical Congress plenary session convened to hear the Americans report on their record eight-day space flight. It was their first meeting.

In a crush of delegates and newsmen, the Americans and Russian hugged each other and exchanged flight pins. The Russians' comrade, Alexei Leonov, who is also in Athens for the Congress, did not attend the session.

Cooper was the first to speak. He nudged Conrad and said: "Give him your gold flight pin." Conrad took the small winged pin off his lapel and gave it to Belyayev. The Russian then removed a Russian pin marked "U.S.S.R." from his uniform and pinned it on Conrad.

The three exchanged small talk and seemed to enjoy themselves, but had no chance really to exchange space notes.

Before the plenary session, a high Soviet official said the American astronauts failed to appear Thursday for a joint interview that might have allowed a more detailed exchange of views.

Late Bulletin

A 20-year-old soldier stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., was killed about 12:30 p. m. today in an automobile accident just south of the Windsor junction of Highway 65 and 52. The Highway Patrol and military authorities had not released his name at Democrat press time pending notification of his next of kin.

Three other soldiers in the car were injured and brought to Bothwell Hospital. Admitted to the hospital was Gary Green, 21, Indianola, Ia. Treated and released were Richard Chapman, 20, Colorado Springs, and George Martin, 19, Dixon, Mo. Other details of the mishap were not immediately available.

Hearnes Seeks Support

Indicates Reapportionment May Go To Federal Courts

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told Missouri legislators today if they don't indicate support for his plan of reapportionment he would tell the federal court chances are dim for legislative redistricting.

"After that," Hearnes said in letters to representatives and senators, "We can only wait and see what action the court will take."

The court said the House, Senate and congressional districts were malapportioned and should be re-aligned on a strict population basis.

The congressional and senatorial districts have been remapped but the new districts proposed by the legislature for the House last spring were rejected by the voters in a special election Aug. 17.

Since then House members have been arguing against the governor's idea of a bipartisan commission of citizens, chosen by him from panels submitted by the party chairmen.

Legislators led by Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, have insisted they should have the right to choose the commission members.

But the governor has said this would be impractical and unworkable. Wednesday, House majority Democrats voted 62-24 for a resolution urging the governor to call a special session without any specific recommendation on how the commission should be set up. Hearnes rejected that.

Thursday the House majority floor leader, Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, accused Hearnes of using a shocking tactic in the reapportionment battle.

He said he believed the governor's actions are "an abuse of the executive's power to call a special session."

"Is the legislative branch to be permitted to deliberate only if it promises to rubber stamp the governor's plan?" Carnahan asked in a speech before the State Association of County Judges.

Indians Seek Investigation Of China Border Location

Would Not Give Reds Pretext For Invasion

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said today India would defend its "territorial integrity" but did not want to give Communist China "any pretext" for aggression.

Shastri proposed a "joint investigation" of the disputed border between the two countries. He was replying in Parliament to an ultimatum from Red China giving India three days to pull out of a disputed Himalayan border area.

Nationwide Strike Hits Local Base

Labor Dispute With Boeing Co. Brings Pickets

A nationwide labor dispute between the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) and the Boeing company continued to have local effects today and union pickets were on hand at all gates into Whiteman AFB this morning.

Some pickets were also reported at missile sites in the Whiteman Minuteman complex in this area where the Boeing company has the prime contract for modifications.

The Air Force information office at Whiteman had no official statement, however, as to how the dispute might be effecting modification work.

A union official at Seattle, Wash. says there is a strong possibility of government intervention to end the strike, but a top government spokesman says no such decision has been made, the Associated Press reported.

Charles West, a general vice president of the International Association of Machinists, said Thursday he thinks government intervention "will be in the form of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act."

The act calls for an 80-day cooling off period. William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said:

"Such a decision must be made by the President of the United States. No decision has been made on any such course of action."

Simkin has called union and management representatives together for renewed negotiations Monday in Washington.

Major issues in the dispute are Boeing's performance rating system for employees, union security and a union request that dependents be included under health and welfare plans.

Record Cold Settles Over Early Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Record September cold settled over the snow-covered northern Rockies and northern Plains and the Pacific Northwest today behind an out-of-season arctic storm that plunged southward along the western mountains to New Mexico and Oklahoma during the night.

The intense cold, whisked into the northwest quarter of the nation on winds that reached 83 m.p.h., dropped morning temperatures to 12 at Butte, Mont.; 19 at Casper, Wyo.; 25 at Spokane, Wash.; 20 at Denver, Colo., and 32 at Rapid City, S.D.

In snow-covered Montana, where skies had mostly cleared, new records included Missoula's 26 and Lewistown's 28. Spilling westward off the Rockies, the chilly air set these September records: 29 at Salem, Ore.; 30 at Yakima, Wash., and 32 at Pendleton, Ore.

With snow already as much as 18 inches deep and still falling in the mountain valleys of Wyoming and Colorado, an estimated 4,500 travelers were stranded at Rawlins in south central Wyoming. Many of them were halted because the Highway Department closed Interstate 80 from Rawlins east to Laramie.

The Weather Bureau predicted another two to four inches of snow, and much drifting, before the storm subsides in the Rawlins area.

He said the investigation should take place as soon as possible to determine exactly where Indian border posts are. Red China claims they are on its territory.

The offer was similar to other Indian proposals for settling the border dispute which Red China has rejected in the past. China most recently turned down a suggestion that neutral observers check the border.

In a blunt note today, the Red Chinese threatened India with "grave consequences" unless India withdraws within three days from a Tibet-Sikkim border area claimed by China.

The note did not specify what the consequences would be. But Red China struck at India in a border dispute in 1962 and the Indian army suffered a setback in the heavy fighting.

Red China's warning was interpreted in New Delhi as far more serious than the scores of notes and protests that have been hurled at India by Peking in recent months. This was the first such protest with a deadline.

Just a few hours after Red China broadcast its ultimatum, deeply worried Indian officials displayed a new reluctance to even speculate on whether the war against Pakistan could still be pursued with what Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri Thursday called "unabated vigor."

Newspapers In Sympathy With 'Times'

NEW YORK (AP) — Six major newspapers suspended publication today in sympathy with the struck New York Times, leaving the city with only one of its metropolitan dailies.

No morning newspaper was published. With negotiations recessed until shortly before noon, the shutdown kept early editions of four afternoon dailies off the streets.

The AFL-CIO New York Newspaper Guild, demanding job protection against automation and mergers, struck the Times Thursday.

Mediator Theodore W. Kheel expressed hope during the recess that "with the benefit of some sleep and some reflection we'll be able to move to a final conclusion."

But Thomas J. Murphy, executive secretary of the New York Guild, said: "I hope he's right and I'm wrong. So far we have not resolved the major issues."

Kheel said the postponement of talks meant that the non-striking member papers of the Publishers Association of New York would not publish today.

The afternoon New York Post, not a member of the association, said it would continue normal editions.

Proposes UN Binding Order

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the U.N. Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani cease-fire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

'US' Planes Hit Bridge In An Error

International Control Group Investigating

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A flight of planes bombed a bridge in the demilitarized zone dividing South and North Viet Nam and a U.S. spokesman said today it is believed the planes involved were American.

He said the bombing Thursday night could be "assumed to be in error."

He added: "If an investigation shows that the bombs hit in the demilitarized zone, this is clearly a departure from the rules. We have not previously struck the zone."

The spokesman said in a statement:

"Initial reports from Vietnamese sources indicate that about 2100 (9 p.m.) yesterday aircraft bombed the north end of the bridge crossing Ben Hai River on Highway 1 in the demilitarized zone. Further reports from the Vietnamese army indicate that there were three Vietnamese killed on the north end of the bridge. The bridge was reported destroyed."

"Observers allege the aircraft were U.S. An investigation is under way at this time, but it is believed that the aircraft were U.S."

The bridge is about 80 miles north of Da Nang, the big U.S. air base 380 miles north of Saigon.

It was not known if the dead were North or South Vietnamese but since they were at the north end of the structure it was believed they were North Vietnamese. About 40 planes made the attack, Vietnamese sources said.

November Draft Call Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today announced a November draft call of 36,450 men — including the first draftees for the Marine Corps in 13 years.

The November call — the biggest since the Korean War — is in accordance with the President's recently announced decision to increase the active armed forces strength in connection with Southeast Asia, the Pentagon said.

The Army will get 28,400 men in November, the Marines 4,050 and the Navy 4,000.

The October draft call was for 33,600 men, including about 4,600 for the Navy. This was the first Navy draft in nine years.

This month's draft quota stands at 27,400 for the Army. The Air Force alone does not intend to place any manpower calls with Selective Service. It has expressed confidence it can meet its requirements through voluntary enlistments.

The Marines last drew on Selective Service in 1952 during the Korean campaign. A total of 81,430 men were inducted into the Marine Corps during 1951 and 1952.

Accident Kills 23-Month-Old Girl

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — The 23-month-old daughter of Keith Michael ran to meet him Thursday as he approached their home near Walnut, Kan., in his truck.

council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a U.N. committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the United Nations has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed that the council declare failure to comply with a new cease-fire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the U.N. Charter.

This article said that if a breach of peace exists, the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-nation council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting.

Thant acknowledged that he had been unable to get agreement of India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan for a cease-fire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatens world peace.

Thant outlined a five-point approach which the council might now take:

— Issue a binding order for a cessation of hostilities, declaring that if either party fails to comply, the penalty provisions of the charter would come into effect. This would bring into play the rarely used Chapter 7 which formally recognizes the existence of a breach of peace.

— Offer resistance of the United Nations in ensuring observance of a cease-fire.

Civilians In Non-Combat Military Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new program set in motion by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara may lead eventually to wholesale shifts of civilians into noncombat jobs now handled by men in uniform.

The result would be a reduction of U.S. military manpower, now planned to reach close to 3 million, and a corresponding reduction in reliance on the draft to fill the ranks.

A top level manpower utilization board will convene this fall to monitor the first phase of the new program and to develop plans for enlargement of it in subsequent years.

McNamara told a news conference Thursday that in its initial phase the program calls for hiring some 60,000 civilians during 1966 to perform administrative, clerical, supply and maintenance, medical, transportation and similar jobs now performed by military personnel.

"This will release some 75,000 officers and enlisted men who are now required for those duties," McNamara said.

He added: "This program will not only permit acceleration of our military buildup but it will also enable us to decrease the number of draftees who would otherwise be required."

He estimated that the drop of about 75,000 in inductions would span perhaps 18 months' time.

The draft recently was sharply turned upward, from about 17,000 men a month to a soon-to-be-achieved 35,000 a month, to help attain a 340,000-man increase in the regular forces because of the war in Viet Nam.

McNamara explained that what he called the saving of 15,000 men is made possible by substituting 60,000 civilians who will hold their jobs for a long time in place of military men who would normally be expected to serve relatively short tours of duty and who would have to be replaced.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I wish you'd stop telling us married women to thank God our husbands are still alive and to pick up the phone and invite a widow to a party.

If YOU want to do the widows a favor, Ann Landers, please print these helpful hints on how to get along:

1. Be self-sufficient, widows. Don't expect your brothers, neighbors, cousins and friends to drive you to market, the cleaners, the doctor, the post office or to church like your husbands did.

2. If you are invited to join another couple, please sit in the back seat. Don't plunk yourself in the front beside the husband.

3. When we invite you to dinner, please don't do all the talking. Our husbands are tired. They would rather read or listen to a ball game.

4. Please drop the phrase, "When Sidney was alive." It's depressing.

If you husbandless females would pay attention to some of these hints perhaps you wouldn't be so lonely.—OUTSPOKEN.

Dear Outspoken: I expect I'll be hearing from a few widows as a result of your letter. Any comments, ladies?

Dear Ann Landers: I used to think only a creep would write to Ann Landers but I guess everybody writes to you sooner or later when they need someone to talk to. Please tell me what to do about this certain girl. I'll call her Jane although that isn't her real name.

We went steady for four months. She was a real sweet kid, but a little square, I thought. Very hipped on religion and like that.

Jane doesn't know much about sports, which is what I am interested in mainly, so we mostly necked. She didn't put up much of an argument when we went from one thing to the next because I told her if a girl really cares about a fellow she should be willing to prove it. I'm ashamed to tell you I got her to go all the way two weeks ago. I felt like a heel and took her straight home. I haven't called her since because I don't know what to say. Frankly, I'd be happy if she moved out of town or at least switched schools so I wouldn't have to see her again.

Why do I feel so lousy about this? It wasn't Jane's fault. It was mine. But I keep telling myself if she was the right kind of girl she would have stopped me. Am I nuts or what?—TOM.

Dear Tom: You aren't nuts. You're a boy with a guilty conscience. Jane allowed you to do something that made you think poorly of yourself and now you want nothing to do with her.

What you did was not only morally wrong and potentially dangerous but also inconsiderate and selfish. I hope you have learned from this experience that sex is not a plaything.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents were born in Eastern Europe and I'm afraid some of their old country ideas will ruin my life.

I am 26 years old and have been going with a fine man for four years. We want to be married but my parents say I cannot marry until my older sister does. They insist that when a younger sister marries first, it spoils the older sister's chances.

I should tell you that my sister is 31. She has no interest in men and I suspect she never will have. Of course I can't tell my folks this and neither can she. Please give me some level-headed advice.—PAYING.

Dear Paying: Set the date and get married. No explanations and no apologies are necessary.

Lucas-Siron Wedding Vows Said, Sept. 3

The chapel of First Methodist Church was the scene of the marriage ceremony uniting Mrs. Carolyn Lucas and Sgt. Donald L. Siron, at half past seven o'clock Friday evening, Sept. 3.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Charles B. Cheffey, pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Lever, Columbia, S. C., are parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claud Siron, 1400 South Warren.

Mrs. Mary Kathryn DeLapp, Independence, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor.

Best man was Mr. Ralph Siron, Independence, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception for relatives was held at the Siron home after the ceremony. Mrs. Leonard Hall, aunt of the bridegroom, made reception arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Siron and Mrs. Larry Siron.

The couple left after the wedding for Columbia, S. C., to visit the bride's parents and other relatives, before going to Camp Pendleton, Calif., where Sgt. Siron will be stationed after Oct. 1.

Sgt. Siron, of the United States Marine Corps, recently returned from a tour of duty in Viet Nam, near Chu Lai.

Richardson- Brown Vows Are Traded

Before relatives and close friends, Miss Janet Virginia Richardson became the bride of Mr. Ronald Benton Brown, at seven o'clock Tuesday evening, Aug. 24 at First Baptist Church, Tipton. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Cooper, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Richardson, Tipton. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Starke, Ottumwa, are parents of the bridegroom.

Organist Mrs. Imogene Kinney, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Lolita O'Bryan, as she sang "Because."

The bride wore a white jacketed dress of embossed nylon. Her veil was ballerina length white tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and one glamelia. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace, loaned for the event by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Bud Bufford.

Miss Kay Price, as maid of honor, wore a dress of yellow whispeream, with a matching face veil. Her colonial bouquet was comprised of tangerine and yellow pompon chrysanthemums.

Best man was Mr. Tommy Myers, Sedalia.

The bride's mother selected a beige lace dress and matching accessories to wear for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the bridegroom wore a light green suit, accessorized with brown. Their corsages were of yellow pompon chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, wedding guests were received by the bride's mother. Wedding cake and punch were served by Mrs. Ann Hirst and Mrs. Jim Watring. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Barbara Prestage.

The bride is employed in the office of Weber Shoe Company, Tipton. The bridegroom is serving in the United States Navy.

Growth Of Industry Explained

How a local industry has become the largest one-way rental service in the United States was explained in a talk by Tom McCully, sales manager of Move Truck Rental System, Inc., before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker, who was introduced by Jack Shoemaker, program chairman, related the factors and American traits that had influenced the development of the rental system with Sedalia as its key point. This was not accomplished without encountering and solving many problems in the transportation field in all the states, in addition to establishment of 460 dealer outlets, maintenance program for transit repairs, investment of $2,000,000 in equipment which serves at present over 15,000 families changing residences.

McCully parenthetically emphasized the need for improved airport facilities in Sedalia in connection with his local industry's operation. Prospects for growth may ultimately result in 100 more employees being brought here, he stated.

Invocation was by Robert Horton. Singing was led by William Ward with Mrs. Lillian Maynard as accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to Abe Rosenthal.

President Gardner announced that an attendance contest is now in progress with the following directors as team captains: J. R. Fritz, E. G. Kehde, Jr., Dr. T. J. Norris, John M. Sneed, James D. Giokaris, Adolph Glenn, P. Cecil Owen and John St. Clair.

Sylvan Woolery introduced the Rev. Ron Beckman, new pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, as a new club member.

Other guests were Dr. Bruce Riddle, Smith-Cotton High School principal, with Pinkney Miller; Steve Wickham with Don Anderson; John M. Edwards, Denver, Colo., and Charles Edwards with their father, M. L. Edwards; Earl Hemphill, Portland, Ore., with his brother, R. C. Hemphill.

Although, Johnson County was represented by a delegation composed of Dale Brannum, Holden, chairman, John Morehead, Warrensburg, Mrs. Hubert R. Etchison, Knob Noster, Mrs. Clyde Miller, Warrensburg and Mrs. Wanda Dildine, Warrensburg, the group could only express approval of the area plan, since Johnson county is preparing its county organization and has not yet been incorporated as a county unit under the EOA.

The officers were elected for a short term ending Dec. 31, 1965, so that a reorganization might be effected for the year 1966, by which time Johnson County could be organized and incorporated.

The following delegates were selected to prepare constitution and by-laws for the area organization: Morgan County: James Wilbanks and George Berkstresser, Jr.; Benton County: George Donnell and Harry Hayworth; Pettis County: Rev. E. R. Erickson and James Buckley. Johnson County was invited to send two representatives to the meeting when it is held.

The area organization was formed in order to have one administrative staff handle all projects proposed and approved for the four county area.

J. Gordon Crowe, Jefferson City, assistant director of Missouri Department of Urban Affairs working with the state office of Economic Opportunity, called attention to funds now available under Title 11-A—The Elementary & Secondary Education Act, for underprivileged. Allotments in the four-county area are: Pettis, $240,087; Benton, $130,309; Johnson, $206,987 and Morgan, $113,759. The program under the act will be administered in the state by Commissioner of Education Hubert W. Wheeler, and developed by school superintendents.

Crowe also called attention to Title 11-B—The Adult Basic Education Act covering adults over 25 years with less than an eighth grade education. Federal funds are available for a thirty week, one night a week study course for those who qualify. At the conclusion of the course those who meet examination requirements would receive a high school equivalent certificate. According to Crowe, there are 10,139 adults eligible in Pettis County; 3,358 in Morgan County; 3,764 in Benton County and 5,497 in Johnson County.

Hazardous Path For Children

LOVELY, Ky. (AP)—For 32 Kentucky children, the path to school in West Virginia is across a narrow railroad bridge or by flatboat across the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy River.

"Some of them have been caught on that bridge by trains," said Shayde Chapman, principal of the Nolan (W.Va.) elementary school which the children attend.

"They had to lie down and let the train pass over them, or get out to the edge of a pier, or, if they were lucky, run off the bridge ahead of the train," he said in an interview.

"Of course, it is just as dangerous crossing the river in boats when it is dark or when the water is up."

This condition has existed for years because there is no road large enough to permit Martin County, Ky., school buses to serve Lovely, a mountain hamlet on the West Virginia-Kentucky border.

But the problem may soon be solved—not by the state, or the county or the federal Appalachia program. Sympathetic citizens have raised funds from individuals and businesses and are giving their time to build an all-weather road.

They started with borrowed bulldozers and graders. During the last three weeks, the county has provided machinery under an agreement that the citizens pay the operator's salaries plus fuel costs.

"We took the Kentucky children because somebody had to care for them," Chapman said. "It is impossible for them to go to school in Kentucky, especially during wet or cold weather."

"Everything is just as legal as it can be made. Their parents either buy a small piece of property over here (West Virginia) and pay taxes on it, or they somehow qualify to vote in West Virginia."

"We provide books for the children and feed them. They are being taken care of."

War Crime Complaint Is Investigated

BONN, Germany (AP)—A war crimes complaint against two retired high-ranking North Atlantic Treaty Organization generals has been investigated by the Bonn prosecutor's office.

A spokesman said Wednesday the office had investigated complaints against Gen. Hans Speidel, who commanded the alliance's land forces in central Europe, and Gen. Hans Heusinger, who was chairman of its military committee in Washington.

The train, in operation for more than 50 years, is being discontinued due to a lack of business, the spokesman said.

The Frisco will have one remaining passenger train each way daily between Kansas City and the Southeast, Birmingham, Ala., is the other terminal.

Stephanopoulos Waits For Call From King

ATHENS (AP)—Informed sources said today Stephanos Stephanopoulos was practically assured of becoming Greece's next premier designate.

He was said to be waiting only for King Constantine to summon him to the palace and give him a mandate to form a coalition government.

Stephanopoulos, who backed away from a mandate six weeks ago after his party refused to support him, was now reported certain of winning a parliamentary vote of confidence.

Circuit Court Finds Lupkey Was Labeled

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A circuit court jury found Thursday that Dean Lupkey, former state Civil Defense director, was libeled by an editorial in the Jefferson City Post-Tribune.

It awarded him $1,000 in actual damages and $50,000 in punitive damages.

Lupkey, who once worked for the newspaper's radio station, had asked $250,000 actual damages and $500,000 punitive.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated approximately four hours.

Lupkey was dismissed Tuesday as director of the Jackson County Civil Defense unit.

Electric Targets In Use By Army

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP)—You know those electronic targets that are so popular in penny arcades? The Army soon will be using similar devices to make war games more realistic.

The units, to be used by infantrymen, tanks and artillery, employ a technique called electro-optics, a combination of infrared light and radio frequency.

Developed by Aircraft Armaments, Inc., of Cockeysville, the units are designed to fill the gap between live-fire training and combat.

Each infantryman using a simulator would have a transmitting unit on his helmet and a receiver attached to his rifle.

The rifleman fires as he would in combat. If his shot is accurate, the victim hears a buzzer and sees a flashing light in his pack.

The attacker can check his own unit to determine how many times he has fired and how many hits he has scored.

Earle S. Jones Jr., a development specialist at Aircraft Armaments, says rifle training in war games and maneuvers is "basically a question of 'bang, you're dead.'"

"Umpires decide if a man has hit his target," he said. "It's strictly a personal opinion."

"The hit indicator would be more accurate in proving the marksmanship of trainees, provide more interest, and increase realism of combat."

KC-Florida Special To Make Last Run

Betsy's Eye Studied By Woman Pilot

ABERDEEN, N.C. (AP)—The wall of Hurricane Betsy was black. The winds tossed the aircraft like a toy, first up and down and then sideways.

Once inside the eye of the storm, white fluffy clouds appeared. The winds were no more. Temperatures suddenly rose 10 to 15 degrees. Ears popped and cracked.

Below were the Andros Islands in the Bahamas. The damage of the hurricane was clearly visible.

Poker Buffs At Opening Of Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Subject Was Roses" opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater this week, there was a special corps of enthusiasts: Frank Gilroy's fellow poker players.

All of them are in show business — writers, actors, directors, producers. They played poker every Wednesday night during the five years Gilroy lived here and worked in the movie and television jungle.

During that time the writer was moonlighting on a play script, turning it out in a realtor's office near his home in the Pacific Palisades. When he couldn't find backers foolhardy enough to finance the play, Gilroy's poker pals contributed to the kitty.

"Most of them gave me $1,000 without even reading the play and wrote it off as a loss," said the still astounded playwright.

The poker players had good reason to doubt their investments. "The Subject Was Roses" was Broadway's Cinderella story of the year — and perhaps any year since "Abie's Irish Rose" was an ingenue.

Gilroy's struggle to get his play produced was remarkable enough to warrant a book in itself — which indeed he wrote as "About Those Roses."

Even after the play finally opened on Broadway, it seemed destined for quick death. Only the transfusion of another $10,000 to its $50,000 budget and financial privations of all concerned allowed it to survive through losing weeks.

Survive it did, with glorious results. Last spring the play was sprinkled with the Drama Critics award, the Tony and the Pulitzer Prize, making it the fifth play to win the triple crown.

Gilroy, 38, is a hard worker with an admitted compulsion to write. He knows the folly of trying to do so in a household of growing youngsters. Wherever he writes — and now it's in Goshen, N.Y. — he rents a bare office which he furnishes with little more than chair, typewriter and table.

"I'm primarily a morning worker, but I write no set amount of time," he remarked. "The harder it goes, the longer I write; my family knows I've had a bad day if I arrive home late. If the work is going well, I quit early. That's so it will be easy to start the next day."

Mrs. Glen H. Allred, Jr.

Rebecca Sue Goldin Is Bride Of Mr. Glen H. Allred, Jr.

Miss Rebecca Sue Goldin and Mr. Glen H. Allred, Jr., were married at eleven o'clock Friday morning, Aug. 20, in Salt Lake Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at Salt Lake City, Utah. The double ring ceremony was read by Elder Howard H. Hunter of the Council of Twelve Apostles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Goldin, Marshall, former Sedalians. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glen H. Allred, Lehi, Utah.

A gown of white satin was worn by the bride. It was appliqued with daisies, centered with seed pearls. The empire waist was fashioned with jewel neckline and long sleeves. The sheath skirt fell from a bias satin band at the waistline. A chapel train fell from a back bow. Her veil of imported illusion cascaded from a circlet headpiece of satin appliqued with daisies and she carried a cascade bouquet of white Marguerite daisies, blue Cymbidium orchids and ivy.

Maid of honor was Miss Sybil Lawless, Marshall. Her dress was of blue cotton satin with overlay of lace in the daisy pattern, styled with long sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her slippers and babushka of cotton satin and lace matched her gown.

Bridesmaids, wearing dresses styled like that of the honor attendant, were Miss Carol Nicholson, Twin Falls, Idaho, and Miss Charlotte Goldin, sister of the bride. Miss Nicholson's gown was of lavender; Miss Goldin's of mint green. Their slippers and babushkas matched their gowns.

Each bridal attendant carried a kissing ball of blue daisies and lavender ribbon trim.

Mr. Jerry Jacob, Lehi, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Quin Allred and Mr. Craig Allred, brothers of the bridegroom, and Mr. Mike Sabey, Mr. Sherl Sudweeks and Mr. Junior Degelbeck.

Mrs. Goldin was attired in a blue re-embroidered Italian cotton dress with matching accessories. A blue lace sheath and accessories to match were worn by Mrs. Allred. Both mothers were presented corsages of Cymbidium orchids.

A formal reception was held after the ceremony in Lehi Stake Center.

White pillars held lavender carnations and gladioli and were accented with blue ribbon and fern, in the receiving line background. Dividers for the hall were small white pillars set with urns filled with fern, and connected with streamers of blue, lavender and mint ribbon. Lace covered the bride's table, which was centered with a three tiered wedding cake frosted in white. White columns separated each tier. Tiers were decorated with flowers in the wedding colors. The upper tier held lacy bells and a bow. The confection was placed on a revolving mirror. French flower carts, brimming with blue daisies and lavender ribbon, flanked the cake.

Quartet tables were centered with white French flower carts, arranged with blue daisies and lavender ribbon. A cherub statuette, holding lavender carnations and gladioli, accented with blue ribbon and fern, centered the buffet table. Blue frappe, mints, nuts, fruit and French pastries were served.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Kathy Allred, presided at the guest book. Mrs. Rulon Allred and Mrs. Edward Chestnut served. Mrs. Gordon Allred and Mrs. Gene Hanson attended the gift table. Their corsages were of white daisies.

For a wedding trip to Reno, Lake Tahoe, San Francisco, Oakland, Carmel-by-the-Sea and Yosemite National Park, the bride changed to a blue empire dress with long sleeves and a daisy patterned lace overblouse. Her babushka was of matching fabric and lace and her accessories were white patent. The couple is at home at 565 East 100 South, Provo, Utah.

Mrs. Allred is attending Brigham Young University at Provo and will be a student teacher this year. Mr. Allred is also attending school at Provo.

Members Consider Lilies At September Meetings

The Sedalia Garden Clubs met Sept. 11 to discuss "Lilies."

Council officers will be installed Oct. 11 at Flat Creek Inn with reservations for the luncheon to be made by Oct. 7.

Club No. 1, met with Mrs. E. G. Stumpf, 611 West 32nd, with 19 members and one guest, Mrs. C. G. Abney, present, for desert luncheon. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. John Bohon and Mrs. Joe Ryan.

Mrs. Emery Herrick, president, presided.

The topic was presented by Mrs. Kenzie Miller, who told of the varieties of lilies, their origins, of the fragrances, their care, their use in arrangements and the best kind of soil and drainage. She listed lilies that bloom at different seasons.

In the arrangement, "As You Like It," Mrs. Stumpf received first, Mrs. Earl Lugen, second, and Mrs. Paul Benson, third.

Club No. 2 met with Mrs. George Raouls, Route 4, with Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. Forrest Drake assisting.

Mrs. Charles Walkup won first in arrangements; Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, second; and Mrs. Willie Alfrey third. Mrs. Raouls won first in horticulture. Mrs. Walkup second. Mrs. Raouls also received honorable mention for three arrangements.

Mrs. H. C. Johnson read a paper on lilies prepared by Mrs. Herbert Seifert which told the ancient origin and how simply lilies are to grow.

Club No. 3, met with Mrs. Wilford Acker, 800 East 24th, with Miss Helen Bapple assisting hostess. Dessert luncheon was served to 17 members.

Mrs. George Eno, Jr., first vice-president, presided in the absence of Mrs. W. M. Ellis.

It was announced that Mrs. Acker received the blue ribbon on her arrangement at the Missouri State Fair.

Mrs. L. H. Hodges, program chairman, introduced Mrs. T. H. Yount who presented the topic. Lilies, Mrs. Yount said, are one of the outstanding flowers of a garden, and told of the range of colors available. They may be started from bulbs, seeds and scales, she said.

In this country, horticultural trade custom has divided lilies into two main groups, the garden kind, known as hardy, and the tender so-called Easter lily.

Lilies have their share of problems, frost, grubs, moles, aphids and rabbits which must be guarded against. The way to handle disease, she said, is to prevent it. Basal rot is caused by a soil-borne fungus, while mosaic is a virus disease. All species of lilies known to be infected with mosaic should be excluded. Imported bulbs usually arrive too late for fall planting, but they may be potted for

Look, George, No Hair!

When we are resting on the back porch steps after a spell of yard work, the neighborhood children like to sit down and talk. We try to keep the conversation on an educational level. But some of the questions they throw at you! Oh my!

One thing for certain, you had better learn not to be too thinned with these frank youngsters. One pre-school tyke standing on a step above, stuck his finger on the top of my head after an exploratory look and exclaimed, "Hey, George, you don't have any hair up here!"

They all call me George—the last name is too difficult to pronounce.

Having your attention called to the scantily haired shiny pate may have been embarrassing at one time but not now. It is easy to explain that most people, the older they get, become afflicted with receding foreheads. And then you have to explain what a receding forehead is, and go on to say perhaps some day you will buy a wig to cover up the bare spot. So what is a wig, etc., etc.

Concerning wigs, it is interesting to note, that though sales volume for wigs has expanded more than 10 times over the past decade, reaching $500,000 in 1964, the surface has scarcely been scratched. Male hair-fitting salons are now appearing in such public places as department stores.

The aim, reports News Front magazine, is to capture a greater percentage of the estimated eight out of 10 men who lose all or part of their hair by the time they reach 35.

Wigs, it is explained to balding men, will enhance their emotional well-being, self confidence and career advancement, so why go around looking like a billiard ball?

Ironically, the greatest obstacle to increased sales of wigs is bald men themselves. A motivational study of 200 thatless men revealed that fear of social ridicule was the single biggest factor that kept them from buying a hairpiece.

Despite the fascination a thatless or nearly bald pate has for children, the victims have more dread of remarks from their own bald brethren.

However, the wig fashion is making convincing progress judging from the statistics which show that promotion is paying off. In this connection a typical advertising slogan of tomorrow may be:

"Does he grow it or does he glue it? Only his barber knows for sure." G.H.S.

The New Look

Knees are obviously "in" for the new look in fashions this fall, especially for the college crowd. The geometric design in stockings, whether they mix or match with the costumes, is part of the well-dressed look for the co-ed.

Even youthful knees are not pretty, but at least with tweedy looking hose they are not as conspicuous as in sheer nylons.

An explanation for these abbreviated fashions is that the manufacturers are eager to use as little material as possible in putting out their mass productions. Also, they wish to expend as little cash as possible on dress makers details. Hence, there is little trimming and less attention to the well-groomed look.

Fortunately, there are still intelligent women who care about dressing to suit their own personalities who are not going to accept the "knee look" costumes. Perhaps they might even have enough influence to guide their daughters in their attire instead of having them meekly submit to extreme high fashion.

Parents and People

Parents, these days, have difficult problems with their children, especially teenagers. Perhaps it is a mistake to button-hole the Junior high and high school age group with a distinctive cognomen. Why not just accept them as an age group developing physically and mentally, and treat them as individuals with expanding problems.

These young people have some responsibilities toward parents who might be going through a few mental and physical and financial problems themselves. Family life is a cooperative venture. Adult nerves can clash as well as young people's nerves. With the opening of school, the demands of clothing and feeding the young and pro-

Silent Cuban Revolt Sabotages Castro

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—A persistent, silent battle against Castro is being fought by individual "nameless" Cubans.

As one of them puts it: "A man with just a little amount of intelligence and a good pair of pliers in his hands can do a lot of damage to the Communists."

He adds: "We have no steel tacks to spread on roads with which to puncture automobile tires, but we got hold of wire and are making tacks out of it."

"A man armed with a gun may get some Communists down, but, eventually, they'll get him, too. . . . To protest about the Communist regime . . . is just to become pinpointed and prosecuted."

The better way, this man explains, is to make the Castroites think you are in accord with them. Don't protest. Accept their laws. Never show you hate them. Shout for Castro with the loudest. Then "when you are all by yourself, destroy everything you can get your hands on."

"Several friends of mine and I have already announced our intention of going to Havana for the great (Castro-Communist) meeting," he says. "But really what we are going to do is to meet with some friends from Artemisa, who are also anti-Communists."

Some of these saboteurs are Castro militiamen, postal workers, government officials, bus drivers, farmers, factory workers, army officers.

Some set themselves a quota of one small act of sabotage once a week.

A bus driver says he uses an ordinary razor blade, hidden in his pocket, to cut the upholstery in bus seats. They're difficult to mend and replacement material is scarce.

A farmer says: "Anyone living near a sugar cane field may set it on fire with a wax candle. Take the candle, light it, stick it in the soil and walk away. As soon as the candle melts, the dry leaves will catch fire and spread it to the sugar cane field."

Castro depends on "volunteer" workers to cut large amounts of his sugar crop. Expert sugar cane workers instruct the amateurs on how best to damage the sugar. Volunteers are told to press hard with their thumbs when planting. A bruise does irreparable damage. In cutting sugar cane at harvest time, these experts say, let the tops of the cut plants fall on top of the shoots. Then, in gathering up the cane, pick up rocks with the cane.

The experts have found phosphorus better than matches for starting fires in cane and tobacco storage houses. These fires are difficult to stop.

Amateur saboteurs in factories and government offices work slowly, make mistakes, throw in extra bureaucratic red tape while acting cheerfully co-operative.

Some men specialize in pouring sugar into tractor, bus and auto tanks. Others do little things. They leave water and electricity on to waste them. They leave their phones off the hooks. Since bottles are scarce, they destroy all bottles and glass containers they come across.

Some regularly pull down electric lines in isolated locations. A length of rope thrown over the wire will do the trick.

Some farmers have agreed to "consume as much as possible" while producing as little as they can.

These acts of themselves will not destroy Castro or his regime. They won't prevent Castro from adventuring elsewhere in Latin America. But they may slow him down. Never underestimate what such determined men can eventually achieve.

Red China Dances Around Edges

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The

war between India and Pakistan — with Red China dancing around the edges and now butting in — has become a kind of fantasy, but a somber one.

Warned to keep their nose out by the United States, which they call a paper tiger, the Red Chinese could hardly hope to save face if they obeyed. Besides, they have a big stake in seeing India lose.

Thus, by keeping troops along the northern edge of India, the Chinese have weakened the Indians' ability to fight Pakistan. They have had to divert half their forces to watching the Chinese.

Since democratic India is the ideological rival of authoritarian China in Asia, so long as it survives and prospers, if it prospers, it provides an alternative to communism. This is undesirable for the Chinese.

Therefore, the destruction of India benefits China which, unlike Russia, has plumped for Pakistan in this war. The Soviets, along with the United States and the United Nations, have wanted a cease-fire to end the fighting.

Pakistan, once considered this country's most fervent ally in Asia, began to cool and turn to China when, after the latter's assault on India in 1962, this country began to arm the Indians.

It had previously armed Pakistan much better. But the population of India outnumbered that of Pakistan by more than 4 to 1. So, if India and Pakistan were ever equally armed, Pakistan wouldn't have much chance.

This is probably the basic reason why Pakistan moved into disputed Kashmir last month — to hit before India got armed any better — and began the fighting, a sort of now-or-never tactic.

But neither India nor Pakistan is equipped for a really long war. Both sides know it. And last week Pakistan must have shocked its Chinese friends by suggesting the United States try to settle things.

Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan said this country should use its "enormous influence" to bring a settlement because it "has a role to play in this part of the world and ought to play it more positively."

But any further intrusion of the United States in Asia is the last thing the Chinese want and this suggestion by Pakistan must have been a blow to them. What they want is the United States out of Asia altogether.

The White House said President Johnson wants to do anything he can to achieve peace but that he believes the route is through the United Nations.

The United Nations had already sent its secretary-general, U Thant, to both India and Pakistan in search of a solution and, so far as has been revealed, got very dismal results.

Then Monday Secretary of State Dean Rusk, concerned about the itchy look of the Chinese on the Indian frontier, said "our own advice to Peking would be to stay out and let the (U.N.) Security Council settle it."

With the world looking at them after this refusal from what they called the paper tiger, the Red Chinese Thursday reacted as if to show the United States it couldn't tell them what to do.

They told India to pull its forces out of a border area claimed by Peking about 1,000 miles away from the Indian-Pakistan fighting or face "grave consequences."

This was a grim reminder to the Indians that Red China had struck hard and suddenly in 1962 and rolled the Indians back at several points in the Himalayas.

This warning from Peking could be interpreted as a further effort to help Pakistan by compelling India to divert even more of its strength to a line between India and China.

But coming so soon after Rusk's warning, it looks more like face-saving.

Q's and A's On Tax Matters

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My wife is expecting and the doctor says the baby will arrive either in late November or early December. Since the baby will be born this year we will be entitled to the $600 exemption this year. Can we start taking this exemption now for income tax withholding purposes?

A—No, you cannot. It is true that the baby can be claimed for the full $600 exemption regardless of the birth date, but the exemption cannot be claimed for withholding purposes until the birth occurs.

Q—I have been told that income tax refunds will be automatically forwarded by the Post Office. Is this so, or should I let you know my new address?

A—If you have filed a change of address form with the postmaster at your old address, then your mail should be forwarded to your new address. However, you also should notify your District Director of Internal Revenue of your new address.

Q—I filed my 1964 tax return before I moved here from out of state. Now I find I should file an amended return. Where should it be sent—to the office here, or to the office where I sent my original return?

A—File your amended return with the district office serving your new address, with the words "amended return" plainly written across the top. However, be sure to let them know where the original return was filed and what your old address was.

Q—I just got a letter that my return is being audited. Specifically, I'm being asked about my mother who I claim as a dependent. What sort of records should I bring in?

A—To show that you are entitled to claim your mother as a dependent, you should be able to substantiate that you provided more than one-half her total support for the year; that her gross income was under $600; and that she did not file a joint return with another taxpayer for the year in question.

If you claimed a deduction for any of your mother's medical expenses then records of these expenses should be brought along.

Q—I have a second job that I work at several hours a day. This employer also withholds Social Security. Is there any way to get him to stop, since my first employer takes out enough to meet my maximum each year?

A—No each employer is required by law to withhold a cer-

Heredity Factors And Environment

By RALPH W. LOWE, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Each of us is the product of an interplay of hereditary factors and environment. There is a great deal of confusion about where one leaves off and the other begins. Most of our physical characteristics such as hair color, height and facial contours are inherited. So are some diseases or a susceptibility to them — color-blindness, albinism and epilepsy to name but a few.

One often hears it argued that differences in temperament or special talents in two brothers must be due to heredity because they both had the same environment. Such differences are almost surely the result of differences in environment because no two persons ever had exactly the same environment. Environment is more than living in the same house. It is the sum of all your experiences including the food you eat, the injuries and infections you suffer and all the impressions you absorb through your five senses.

Even the environment of identical twins is different. They do not share equally in the nourishment they derive from the mother's body even before they are born. After they are born they don't both stub their toe at the same time or get the same amount of comforting attention if they do. They don't both play with the same toy at the same time and they don't both have the same nightmares. Such subtle differences in environment can cause far-reaching differences in personality.

It has been shown that a child with the best inherited qualities in the world will turn out poorly if he isn't encouraged to develop his interests and his talents and conversely a child with relatively poor genes can do remarkably well if he is reared in an atmosphere of love, respect and human understanding.

The fact that many abnormalities are inherited has caused such questions to be asked as whether it is wise for Agatha to marry Henry; whether, if they do marry their chances for a healthy family would be better served by adopting their babies than by having their own; and whether Nathaniel or Samantha should marry anyone.

To try to answer some of these questions genetic counselors are now available in some communities. Since much harm can be done by poor counseling, only counselors recognized as qualified by the American Eugenics Society (230 Park Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017) should be consulted.

A Rare Development

Confidence In US Economy Greets 1965 Fall Season

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely have Americans greeted an approaching fall season with such general confidence in the economy.

Even some of the disquieting prospects—increased fighting in Asia and a probable rise in prices of some basic items as production costs mount—have a silver lining for those who expect prosperity to continue with a show of sober if gratifying gains.

The stepped-up shooting war in Asia is deplored for many reasons. But in the purely economic field it seems to promise a nudge upward for business activity, already at a record high in most sectors. The stimulant will come from growing spending for military hardware and manpower.

Expectation of rising prices, along with greater production of hard goods, has led many in the stock market to count on still higher profits for corporations. Also some find stocks attractive as a hedge against the chance of any further inflation. Settlement terms of the steel strike were initially interpreted that way on Wall Street.

The general public confidence at the start of fall seems built on still other things.

One is the momentum of the long economic upswing, now in its 55th month, which promises to carry through for the rest of the year.

Another is satisfaction that this summer's performance was much better than some worriers had been predicting.

And a third is the evident strength of the economy. Most of the statistics will be bigger and better this fall now that the government has revised its methods of compiling them.

In economics, as in many other lines, quite often nothing succeeds like success. Its effect on confidence is well established.

And the optimists say the economy has too much muscle now to be easily upset.

They also count on Washington to prescribe a tonic fast if the muscles show signs of growing flabby.

They are far from that at the start of the fall season. The three mainstays of the economy are all strong.

First is consumer spending and confidence. With personal incomes and savings higher than ever, and with a record number of Americans at work, the wherewithal to buy the goods and services that industry produces is plentiful. The will to spend, or to go into debt, seems strong.

The second prop is business spending for capital goods, such as plants and equipment. That is expected to hit an annual rate of $53 billion in the three months just ahead, compared with just under $51 billion in the spring.

The third stimulant to economic growth is government spending. Total state and local tain amount on the first $4,800 of wages paid to every employee. If more than $174 in Social Security is withheld from you during the year, the excess may be taken as a credit against your income tax when you file your return next year.

government spending continues to rise to fill the needs or meet the demands of a growing population. Federal outlays will increase as the Viet Nam War grows more costly and the many projects of the Great Society take form and expand.

burst on the tournament scene at the age of 18 and now approaching 50 he claims to have retired from tournament competition.

We hope it is one of those retirements that won't stick. He has usually been an opponent, but recently he sat South as Oswald Jacoby's partner in an all-expert rubber bridge game.

Like all top players Johnny is slam-minded and planned to bid a slam as soon as North raised his two-heart bid to three.

There was nothing sensational about this decision. Any good bridge player would want to be in a slam also. The difference between Johnny and most bridge players is the way that Johnny got the slam. Ordinary players would have used Blackwood immediately over North's three-heart call. Johnny waited one round by bidding four clubs on the way up.

The bid looks pointless indeed. In fact, it looks worse than pointless. The one lead Johnny wanted was a club. Why should he bid clubs and stop that lead?

The answer is that Johnny knew his West opponent. Sure enough West reviewed the bidding carefully and asked himself, "Why did Johnny bid the club suit at all?"

Then West came to the conclusion that Johnny was trying to stop a club lead. West opened a club and the slam made.

Of course, only a diamond lead would beat the slam and if Johnny had bid the hand simply there is no telling what West would have opened. All we can point out is that Johnny got West to make the lead that Johnny wanted him to make.

Surnames May Go Back In History

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — If your last name is Belcher it doesn't mean you had an ancestor renowned for burping. It comes from a word meaning someone pretty-bel-chere.

If your name is Allbones, be proud of it. It derives from Alban, the first British martyr. And if your name is Onion, don't despair. It's from the good and ancient Welsh personal name, Enion.

Shacklady—and there are lots of them in England—comes not from some onetime refined lady reduced to living in a hovel. Shacklady is a variation of Shakerley, a hamlet in Lancashire.

James Pennethorne Hughes discusses these names — and hundreds more—in his just published book: "Is Thy Name Wart? The Origins of Some Curious and Other Surnames."

"Some surnames which appear ordinary are in fact curious," says the author. "Others which appear grotesque are, when allowances have been made for medieval spelling, almost universal illiteracy, the error of copyists, and the vagaries of English dialect, straightforward enough."

With hints and a number of source book suggestions, Hughes has written a 128-page book full of fascinating facts about surnames, many of them found in the United States.

The Normans apparently introduced last names to this country. The recording, by parishes, of all births, marriages and deaths was required. This was unpopular and many refused to comply.

The surname business was so haphazard, that until 1910, in Yorkshire, the Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould found many men born with a name in one spelling, who were married under another, and buried under a third.

Bridges, Briggs and Burgess, Hughes says, can all be from some ancient emigrant from Bruges who settled in England. Cullen can be from Cologne. Pickard and Packard came from Picardy across the English Channel.

Calvert may not be as elegant as it sounds. The author finds it comes from the occupation of calf-herding, a man who looked after a pack of calves.

Lush and Lusher are not from hitting the bottle, but from the honorable office of Usher. Horn, he says, is a name of great antiquity, coming from a parish in Kent.

Hal Boyle is ill.

Will Determine Future Crucial Crossroads Wait For '65 Vatican Council

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

That four-year parliament of Roman Catholicism, the second Vatican Council, already has changed the course of Christian history, but it still faces some crucial and dramatic crossroads. The steps to be taken, says Pope Paul VI, will determine the church's future "for a long time to come."

With the church's nearly 2,500 bishops from around the earth assembled in Rome this week for their fourth session, the first order of business was a tension-charged document upholding religious liberty for all faiths. It caused an upheaval in the closing hours of the previous session, when about 1,500 prelates signed appeals for immediate action on it. But a ruling for delay by the council's presidium failed.

Thereafter, Pope Paul gave assurance that the matter would head the docket for this session. Although supported by a strong council bloc, including American bishops, the declaration has encountered continuing opposition, some of it from members of the Curia, the Vatican's administrative cabinet.

Boston's Richard Cardinal Cushing has said the current efforts toward Christian unity depend on the Catholic Church taking a clear stand in support of the rights of religious freedom. It has not before done so definitively.

The issue may be a weather-vane of the council's concluding session.

Even at its outset, however, it received an initial stimulus from Pope Paul, when he announced the establishment of a regular synod, or representative senate of bishops, to aid in continuing government of the church.

This marked a further step toward broadening church rule, which had been tightly centralized for centuries.

In the three previous sessions, beginning in the fall of 1962, the council has decreed some momentous reforms. But several critical topics, in addition to religious liberty, still await final action.

Among them is the proposed declaration emphasizing Christian links to Judaism and repudiating the charge that Jews bear special blame for Christ's crucifixion.

The statement "unequivocally tells what Christian teaching is and ought to be," says Msgr. John M. Oesterreicher, director of the Institute of Judaic-Christian Studies, of Newark, N.J., a council adviser.

He says it will be a "black day" if the church fails to approve it.

Another historic topic before the council — one touching on relationships of Roman Catholics and Protestants — is a proposed statement "on divine revelation."

It emphasizes the Bible as a basic channel of Divine truth, saying that all preaching should draw sustenance from Holy Writ. While church tradition is seen as further illuminating truth, it is not divorced from Scripture.

The document is a revision of an earlier one, portraying Scripchannels of revelation. The widely held "Two-source" theory was strongly assailed at the first session — one of the first displays of the reforming trend.

As a result, the revised document takes a neutral position on the old "double source" school, leaving room for the developing view that full Christian revelation resides in Scripture, either explicitly or implicitly.

This was a key maxim of the 16th century Protestant Reformation — "sola scriptura," "only the Bible." But Protestant thought also has widened to recognize the role of church tradition in conveying truth, including the church's compilation and preservation of Scriptures themselves.

While these and other matters remain to be decided, the council already has launched an epochal transformation in the Catholic Church.

At its last session, it completed a new constitution on the church affirming the principle of "collegiality," or shared rule of the church by all bishops, including the Pope, and not the Pope alone.

Pope Paul's announcement of a permanent senate implemented this new approach — which is closer to governing systems of other churches. The constitution also stresses the responsibility of laymen in the church.

The council, at its last session, also issued its historic decree on ecumenism, recognizing ties with all baptized Christians, regretting mutual faults in causing the divisions, and urg-

World Plan For More Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today he will ask Congress next year to authorize a broad, long-range program to promote education in all parts of the world.

In an address prepared for a celebration of the birth 200 years ago of James Smithson, whose bequest led to the founding of the Smithsonian Institution, Johnson said:

"We mean to show that this nation's dream of a great society does not stop at the water's edge. It is not just an American dream. All are welcome to share in it. All are invited to contribute to it."

Johnson disclosed he already has created a special task force "to recommend a broad and long-range plan of world wide educational endeavor." And he said leaders in both public and private enterprise will be invited to join in laying plans for what he described as "a new noble adventure."

In January, the President said, he will present to Congress a five-point program to:

- Help education efforts in the developing nations and regions.
- Help American schools increase their knowledge of the world and its peoples.
- Promote the exchange of students and teachers.
- Increase the free flow of

Season Opener With Kentucky

Backs' Absenteeism From Workouts May Be Handicap

COLUMBIA, Mo. (Special) — Absenteeism of key Missouri backs from pre-season drills and contact work because of injuries could be the Tigers' biggest handicap in their 1965 opener with Kentucky here Saturday afternoon.

That's the considered opinion of John (Hi) Simmons, baseball coach at Mizzou, whose football savvy stems from long years of exposure as Don Faurot's assistant and chief scout.

"Why, that No. 1 backfield hasn't been together since they posed for photographers late last month," asserted the skipper of four Big Eight championship teams. "They're bound to be rusty in their timing and execution."

Echoing the concern that Coach Dan Devine and his staff have felt over the extended pre-season inactivity of veteran backs Gary Lane, Charlie Brown, Earl Denny and Carl Reese — Simmons makes a good point.

The no-contact edict for Brown, recovering from late April knee surgery, was Devine's decision. But nuisance injuries to Lane (shoulder), Denny (knee) and Reese (thigh) have disrupted the whole September picture. All should be ready Saturday, except maybe Denny — but valuable practice time and conditioning have been lost.

"This is bad. It's like playing your first baseball game against a team that has had 20 games," says Simmons, recalling that the 1960 Mizzou football team started the same four backs in all ten games en route to an Orange Bowl bid.

"That was a big item in their success," he says.

Drawing on his lengthy scouting background, the Missouri baseball boss considers Rick Norton, Kentucky quarterback, a substantial threat to the Tigers this weekend.

"Anytime you face a senior quarterback with a fine record, you figure he'll be tough in third-down, long yardage situations. He is like the good two-strike hitter in baseball, always tough under pressure."

Streams High, Muddy

Weekend Fishing Outlook Is Dim

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Most Missouri streams are high and muddy and offering little in the way of fishing prospects, the State Conservation Commission reported Thursday.

Some lakes are in excellent condition, however, and should produce fine fishing for this weekend.

Conditions by region:

Northwest — Streams muddy and fishing generally poor; lakes and ponds offer good fishing with bass, channel catfish and bluegills best catches.

North central — Streams high and muddy with fishing generally poor.

Northeast — Upper Mississippi clear to murky; channel cat good along rocky ledges, white bass good at sandy slough; other streams murky to muddy with panfish, catfish and drum fishing fair.

West central — Osage and Pomme de Terre expected to be high and murky by weekend; Sac dingy, South Grand muddy. Non-game species the best bet.

Central — Streams high and muddy.

East central — Rivers murky to muddy; little success reported.

Southwest — James murky but bass fishing fair on artificials, carp and panfish good and channels fair; Elk clear and in good condition. Best fishing of the year reported in this district.

Ozark — Current murky with no fishing; Jacks Fork, Piney and Eleven Point clear but heavy rains expected.

Southeast — Streams high and dingy to muddy; very poor.

Lakes:

Bull Shoals — good; bass taking catfish and artificials and crappie hitting minnows.

Table Rock — Clear with crappie very good, bass good and white bass and channels fair.

Wappapello — Murky to muddy; channels hitting on trotlines.

Clearwater — Mostly murky to muddy; some channels being taken.

Norfolk — Clear with bass best catch on crawfish.

Pomme de Terre — Clear and in good condition; bass and crappie best catch with catfish fair.

Lake of the Ozarks — Headwaters clearing with bass and crappie reported best; most arms muddy to dingy.

Trimble — Clear; bluegill good, channels and bullheads fair, crappie improving.

Jacomo — Clear; bass taking trolled artificials, channels hitting prepared baits.

Thousand Hills — Clear to murky; fair to good for crappie and channels.

Humewell — Good; bass good, channels and bluegill fair.

Montrose — Clearing; good for channels and bass.

Schell-Osage — Clear; bass, bluegill and crappie fair to good.

Duck Creek — Moss cover greatly reduced; large bass being taken on weedless spoons.

Trout areas — Roaring River clear, Bennett Spring, Montauk and Maramec Spring may be high and murky by weekend but fishing should continue good.

Giants In 14th Win In A Row

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The only thing Willie Mays did was get egg on his shirt but the San Francisco Giants took another long stride toward tucking the National League pennant in their back pocket.

Playing without Mays for only the sixth time this season, the Giants reeled off their 14th straight victory by beating Houston 5-1 Thursday night and stretched their lead to 4 1/2 games over Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

Mays took part in a pregame egg-throwing contest and finished out of the money after one of the eggs broke in his hand and splattered. Then he sat down on orders from Manager Herman Franks, his day's work done.

It was the 15th time this season Franks had decided to give Mays a rest but only the sixth time he was not forced to use him at some point in the game.

The Giants, meanwhile, made the most of Cincinnati's loss to the New York Mets, tacked one full game on their lead and assumed a commanding position with time running out on the Reds and Dodgers.

The Giants now have 16 games left — including seven with the Reds. If they play .500 ball the rest of the way, the Reds and Dodgers will have to win 12 of their remaining 15 games to finish in a tie. Los Angeles and Cincinnati meet three more times.

The Giants move on to Milwaukee tonight for the opener of a three-game series. The Reds, who lost to the Mets 7-3, are at home for a three-game set against Houston and the Dodgers, who downed the Chicago Cubs 2-0, open a three-game series at St. Louis.

In other NL games Thursday, fourth-place Milwaukee slipped seven games back after an 8-6 loss at Philadelphia and fifth-place Pittsburgh fell 9 1/2 games behind, dropping a 2-1 decision to St. Louis.

The Cardinals snapped a 1-1 tie in the eight-inning against the Pirates when Bob Tolan singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Lou Brock's single. Tracy Stallard got the victory for an 11-7 record.

Johnny Stephenson did most of the damage against the Reds. The Mets catcher, who had only one homer going into the game, hit a three-run shot in the third inning and a solo homer in the eighth.

He also beat out a bunt for a single in the sixth and scored on a squeeze bunt by pitcher Al Jackson.

Sandy Koufax, the Dodgers' 22-game winner, made his second relief appearance of the season in the ninth inning against the Cubs, setting them down 1-2-3 after Claude Osteen had walked leadoff man Billy Williams. Osteen, now 14-14, allowed only five hits before Koufax took over.

The Phillies downed the Braves with a three-run eighth inning rally in which Dick Stuart doubled in the tie-breaking run and then Rich Allen smacked a two-run single. Stuart and Johnny Callison homered for Philadelphia while Eddie Mathews connected for Milwaukee.

The Cardinals snapped a 1-1 tie in the eight-inning against the Pirates when Bob Tolan singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Lou Brock's single. Tracy Stallard got the victory for an 11-7 record.

He also beat out a bunt for a single in the sixth and scored on a squeeze bunt by pitcher Al Jackson.

'In' School Often Proves 'Far Out'

By JOHN C. HOY
Dean of Admissions
Wesleyan University
Middletown, Conn.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Americans receive a great deal of training in buying on the basis of "name" and size. Whatever its value in everyday life, this procedure just does not make sense in selecting a college.

There are more than 2,200 accredited, four-year colleges and universities in this country. An unparalleled dimension of choice is open to prospective students and their parents.

Nevertheless, the thinking of far too many students and parents is obscured by the feeling that perhaps 50 of those 2,200 institutions are the "in" places to go.

At Wesleyan University we face this problem to some degree. My advice to students who seem to be applying because of Wesleyan's "prestige" is to think again and decide what they really seek in a college education.

Basking in supposed "prestige" is no substitute for an education. Furthermore, in entirely practical terms, many who first go to a college or university for superficial reasons eventually wake up and become very unhappy. Some are so disillusioned that they drop out.

The naive of this "prestige" business can easily be demonstrated. Consider the case of current and recent presidents of three renowned universities, Brown, Duke, and Harvard. All three were formerly presidents of Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis. The energy and leadership that these distinguished men have so impressively displayed for their "name" institutions was earlier matched by their service at one small Wisconsin college.

In fact, an extraordinary number of distinguished university presidents, professors and researchers have attended and taught in comparatively unknown institutions. A Knapp-Goodrich study, "The Origins of American Scientists," reveals that on a scale of the "production" of scientists, 40 of America's top 50 institutions are small liberal arts colleges.

Many of these are of limited reputation. Most are located in the Middle and Far West. Only three large, well-known institutions—Johns Hopkins, Chicago and Wisconsin—were listed at all among the top 50.

Similar studies of the collegiate background of business and industrial leaders indicates that the better known institutions have no corner on the market when it comes to producing unusually successful men and women.

Size is another factor that often distorts the thinking of prospective students as they consider the colleges and universities to which they will apply.

The current bias seems to be against "bigness." Needless to say, we of Wesleyan have a well-developed awareness of the advantages offered by a relatively small campus and a high ratio of faculty to students.

But no one of us would agree with the exaggerated fears that an education at a large institution reduces the students to being "just another number."

In fact, because of their size many larger institutions are able to offer a great deal more individualized attention to students. Personnel services at many state universities have well-rounded professional staffs working in vocational guidance and planning, job placement, psychological testing and counseling, psychiatric clinics, complete medical and health services as well as academic counseling.

The problem facing prospective students, their secondary school advisers and their parents is to choose the school for which the student is best suited. Any student with initiative to seek out the multiplicity of services offered at large universities can enjoy a very complete education at such an institution.

Dad's "alma mater" can be a real problem. How many dads who went to Swarthmore feel their sons ought to go there, too? In such instances, Junior is forced, unwittingly, to support dad's enthusiasm although he has severe reservations about practically all of his father's old college buddies.

All that can be said here is that alumni sons, above all others, should be critical of dad's college. They should be permitted to measure the place as objectively as possible. The parent truly interested in his son—rather than his own reincarnation—will encourage the young man to recognize that the education he is seeking is for himself.

Besides, after 25 years, Swarthmore really isn't the same old place anyway.

TV Tempo Quickens Wednesday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of rip-roaring action shows, two comedies that promise to provide an occasional chuckle, and a science-fiction hour that may delight the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's "The Big Valley" and CBS' "I Spy," and you could hardly ask for greater diversity.

"The Big Valley" is a Western, family style like "Bonanza," but in its first outing suggested that its story lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkleys of old California consist of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons who don't seem to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem.

"I Spy" is one of those currently popular secret agent things, set in modern Hong Kong. Costars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby—TV's first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in a series.

The first show was a fast-moving, slick production about a Negro athlete who had defected to Peking. Our heroes' job was to rescue him. This involved some fancy gun play, vicious fights and a particularly fascinating chase.

On the comedy front was CBS' "Green Acres" which takes a terribly smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse that looks like the shack abandoned by the "Beverly Hillsbillies."

Eva Gabor—in lovely clothes—and Eddie Albert play the city slicker couple. They had some pretty amusing lines in the opening show which was primarily occupied with getting them out of a Park Avenue apartment furnished in appallingly bad taste and down on the farm.

"Gidget" on ABC will undoubtedly be enjoyed by the people who made "Gidget" movies box office successes—teen-agers and parents who want to understand teen-agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

"Lost in Space" on CBS is a companion piece to ABC's "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," and the first episode was dedicated to shipping a family in the year 1997 to a planet five and one-half years of spaceship travel away.

The special effects of the show were most interesting—tubes in which to freeze passengers for the trip, flashing lights and a spaceship that looks like a flying saucer.

The plot includes an evil agent of a foreign power who wants to wreck the voyage, but the series contains something really new in villains—a robot computer that has been programmed to destroy the spacecraft. He did a lot of damage before his power pack was removed, and may turn out to be one of the stars of the show.

MOLAB—With the world—at least a large-scale replica, the Unisphere—as a backdrop, a scale model of a mobile lunar laboratory (MOLAB) attracts the curious attention of a World's Fair guard and visitors. The vehicle is designed to support two astronauts for two weeks after landing on the moon in the Apollo space project.

Jitters In Poland

WARSAW (AP)—War jitters swept Poland Thursday. Housewives stripped stores of their entire stocks of flour, sugar, salt and other staples.

The panic was caused by the unexplained weekend visit here of Soviet Communist party Chief Leonid Brezhnev followed by a sudden past-midnight mobilization of Polish reservists for army maneuvers and filming of a war movie in the streets of Warsaw.

Similar runs on Warsaw stores occurred at the time of the 1961 Berlin crisis and the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

Too Much Income

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet housewife complained to Izvestia today that her husband makes too much money and squanders it carousing with fellow coal miners.

"On Monday they go to work with hangovers," she wrote to the government newspaper.

Still Seek Cyanide

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Police continued the search today for 28 pounds of deadly potassium cyanide stolen from an African messenger in downtown Johannesburg.

Press Reports said the poison was enough to kill 100,000 persons on contact.

Accusation By Carnahan

'Shocking Tactic' Is Used By Hearnese

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, majority leader of the Missouri House, accused fellow Democrat Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday of a "shocking tactic" in demanding a House reapportionment commission appointed by himself.

Carnahan was one of 63 House Democrats who supported a plan Wednesday whereby the governor was urged to call a special session on reapportionment with no strings attached.

Anxious Days Ahead For Many Cities

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The days ahead will be anxious ones for cities along the Missouri-Kansas line seeking to land the world's largest atom smasher.

The list of possible sites for the $348 million nuclear reactor was reduced to 85 possible locations Wednesday.

Still in the running are the Greater Kansas City area, which takes in the two big cities on either side of the state line, and the Joplin-Pittsburg area.

The National Academy of Sciences has agreed to evaluate the sites for the Atomic Energy Commission. A committee will be selected to study all the remaining 85 proposals. Besides space, the project will require abundance of water and power.

Mayor Ilus W. Davis of Kansas City said Thursday that city will be ready to receive the committee.

"We have made plans and an outline of what to do when the site committee comes here," Mayor Davis said.

He added, however, that details will not be published.

The Greater Kansas City area has four possible sites. It first had five, but since Sunflower Ordnance plant near De Soto is being reactivated it has been removed from the list.

The other state-line site is roughly between Joplin and Pittsburg, Kan., and is open (Please Turn to Page 6 Col. 3)

TODAY'S WEATHER

Partly cloudy Friday and Friday night with scattered showers or thundershowers. Turning colder Friday night. Highs Friday 80s. Low Friday night 60s. Saturday cloudy with rain or drizzle.

The temperature Thursday was 60 at 7 a.m., and 66 at noon. Low Wednesday night was 56, with 1.04 inches of rainfall.

The temperature one year ago Thursday, high 83, low 62; two years ago, high 80, low 56; three years ago, high 80, low 67.

Lake of Ozark stage: 59.2 feet; 8 below full reservoir; down .1.

But the governor said later he would not call a session unless he was assured the legislature would support a constitutional amendment drawn to his specifications on reapportionment of the House — a bipartisan commission like the one which just this week completed redistricting of the state Senate.

Under Hearnese's plan the two major party committees would select panels of 10 each. Then the governor would choose five from each panel to do the job.

Carnahan, in a speech prepared for a meeting of the State Association of County Judges called it "a shocking tactic and one which should be abandoned immediately in the interest of sound government."

"I consider this approach an abuse of the executive's power to call a special session. Is the legislative branch to be permitted to deliberate only if it promises to rubber stamp the governor's plan?"

The governor said "the objective of all—the legislature, the governor and the people—should be to put forward the best possible solution to the reapportionment problem. This does not necessarily mean the adoption of the governor's entire plan or the plan suggested by House leaders."

Carnahan and Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, favored a bipartisan commission chosen by members of the two parties in the House.

But Hearnese wouldn't buy that. Nor would he go along Wednesday with the uncommitted special session.

So, with the voters having rejected Aug. 17 the legislative plan of reapportionment of the House by the House, plus the impasse between Hearnese and the House on how the problem should be solved, the immediate future has in store:

1. A second Democratic meeting Sunday, called by the House caucus chairman, Rep. Harry Raiffie, D-St. Louis, who said Speaker Graham had no right to call such a caucus as was held Wednesday.

2. A caucus of the 40 Republican minority members Monday to see whose side they will be on.

If no acceptable solution is reached by the House members and the governor, the federal court could redistrict the House by itself or could let the House candidates run at large next year.

Furious Winter Storm Breaks In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A furious winter storm burst in upon the waning summer season Thursday, dumping as much as 15 inches of snow in the northern Wyoming mountains and giving a quick freeze to parts of at least five north-central states.

The cold, snow and whipping winds surged out of the arctic region down the spine of the Rocky Mountains and then spread eastward onto the Great Plains.

The Weather Bureau said it was one of the "earliest and worst outbreaks of cold air ever," and it would generate severe thunderstorms and tornadoes as it thrusts southward into warmer air.

The Weather Bureau issued a tornado forecast for northeastern and east-central Kansas and north-central and northwestern Missouri. At the same time, a forecaster said, "This is a major storm and will be in the headlines for the next few days."

The storm laded 18 inches of snow onto the area around Whitefish, Mont., a resort community near the Canadian border. Fifteen inches of snow closed all roads in Yellowstone National Park and cut off both travel and telephone communication between the park and Cody, Wyo., the town nearest to the park's eastern entrance.

Two major mountain passes were closed for a time in Montana, but highway officials of both Montana and Wyoming said later that major traffic arteries were usable although treacherous.

The collision of a car and a truck on an icy highway near Big Timber, Mont., killed two men and a child. A truck slipped off a snow-slick surface and blocked traffic to prevent the scheduled opening of a new stretch of interstate highway north of Helena, Mont.

At Rock Springs, Wyo., a 40-mile-an-hour wind whipped new snow into clouds that cut visibility to a quarter of a mile. The midforenoon temperature there was 19.

Local Guard Unit Trains In November

Major General L. B. Adams, Jr., Adjutant General of Missouri Thursday announced that the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 128th Artillery, Missouri Army National Guard has been selected to take part in specialized winter maneuvers with the 5th Mechanized Division of the Regular Army at Fort Carson, Colorado for two weeks during the month of November.

The 1st Battalion of the 128th Artillery has units located in Mexico, Columbia, St. Clair, Sedalia and Booneville and is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Peyton T. Russell of Mexico. The units just completed field training for calendar year 1965 at Camp Ripley, Minnesota with excellent ratings in tactical exercises, firing of 105 millimeter howitzer, and all other activities. The currently scheduled winter maneuvers will replace the field training period for the battalion in 1966. Special winter clothing and equipment will be issued to the battalion for its participation in the maneuver.

The exercise is of special importance.

Pakistan To Continue The War Says Prime Minister

India's Millions Asked To Undergo Hardships

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri declared Thursday "Pakistan is intending to continue the fight." He called on India's millions "to cheerfully undergo hardships."

Shastri told Parliament that President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan was only trying to "beguile the world" with his talk of peace.

Ayub's declaration Wednesday that President Johnson could play an important role by telling both sides to quit fighting drew criticism from an Indian government spokesman.

"We have already made a positive response to appeals by Johnson and others," he said. "But Pakistan now is just engaged in political maneuvering."

Officials in Washington said the Johnson administration had asked Ayub what kind of U.S. intervention he believes could be effective.

Shastri said U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission to India and Pakistan failed because Pakistan insisted on a conditional cease-fire. But Thant said in London on his way back to New York he did not consider the mission a failure and saw a possibility he would return to India and Pakistan.

The fighting fronts appeared quiet, but Pakistan claimed it had inflicted a heavy defeat Wednesday on the Indians around Sialkot, on the northern front, and to the east of Sialkot in southwest Kashmir.

A spokesman in Rawalpindi, Pakistan's capital, said more than 60 Indian tanks were destroyed in a battle near Sialkot and more than 200 vehicles were left burning by Pakistani fighter-bombers in raids on a large convoy southwest on Jammu in Kashmir.

An Indian Dnns Ministry spokesman reported only fighting in the Sialkot area, indicating a slackening everywhere else.

Radio Pakistan claimed 326 Indian tanks and 91 planes have been destroyed since Sept. 9.

In the air war, Radio Pakistan reported Indian planes raided Peshawar, an important base 100 miles west of Rawalpindi, and had killed some civilians.

In his report to Parliament, Shastri said he twice accepted Thant's request to halt hostilities, once Tuesday and once Wednesday, but each time Pakistan made no response. Ayub said Thant's cease-fire was entirely unacceptable.

Shastri said Pakistan had laid down conditions for a cease-fire, none of which were acceptable to India.

Servicemen Identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department Thursday identified four U.S. servicemen who died in Viet Nam as a result of Communist action and three who died from other causes.

Those dead not as a result of hostile action included:

Army PFC. Joseph L. Tschambers, son of Mrs. Mary K. Tschambers, St. Louis Mo.

Reduction In Gas Rate Announced

Richard C. Green, president of Missouri Public Service Company, announced Thursday that there will be a reduction in natural gas rates to their consumers in this area.

The reduction came about as the result of an agreement between the Cities Service Company and its customers which was approved by the Federal Power Commission. The Missouri Public Service Company, which purchases natural gas from the Cities Service Gas Company, will therefore reduce the rates charged its gas customers proportionally. Permission to reduce the rates has been granted to the company by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The average residential natural gas consumer will receive a 1.46 per cent reduction which represents a decrease of about $2.09 per year. Industrial consumers will receive a 2.33 per cent reduction which represents a decrease of about $59.87 per year.

MPS Company officials explained that the new rates will be used in billing from meter reading on and after Sept. 7, 1965. The company will also refund the difference in rates charged natural gas consumers retroactive to April 23, 1964, which was the date when the Cities Service Gas Company initially increased their rates.

The rate reduction and refund will apply to the Missouri Public Service Company's natural gas consumers in the following cities: Clinton, Deerfield, Henrietta, Lexington, Marshall, Nevada, Platte City, Richmond, Sedalia, Tracy, Weston and the rural areas surrounding these communities.

Driver Absolved Of Blame In Mishap

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday night absolved Curtis Thorp, 19, Nelson, Mo., of any responsibility in the death of Kenneth Hammerand, 18, Marshall.

Sheriff Steve Rimmer told the jury. Thorp reported he was driving south of here early Wednesday morning when his car topped a rise in the road and ran over an object. It was Hammerand, son of a Missouri Highway Patrol sergeant stationed here. Hammerand's motorcycle, its gasoline tank empty, was found about seven miles away.

Ground Troops In Push

US, Viet Planes Continue Bombing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese planes continued bombing targets hundreds of miles apart in North and South Viet Nam Thursday. U.S. military spokesmen reported.

On the ground, U.S. and allied troops pushed their big operation to take control of Viet Cong-dominated jungle around Ben Cat, about 30 miles north of Saigon. No major contact with the elusive guerrillas has been reported since the drive began Tuesday with an airdrop of 1,100 Vietnamese paratroops in driving rain. Elements of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade and Australian and New Zealand contingents joined the operation by armored convoy and helicopter lift.

In their continuing air offensive raid U.S. B52s made their first raid into the Mekong River delta south of Saigon, striking a suspected Red target 90 miles below the capital in Vinh Binh Province.

Far to the north, 20 U.S. Air Force planes hit the Co Dinh military barracks, 13 miles west of Thanh Hoa in North Viet Nam, for the second time this week. Co Dinh was a target of U.S. planes Tuesday. Other aircraft hit the Hon Me Island storage facilities nine miles off the North Vietnamese coast and 177 miles north of the frontier.

At the Vinh army barracks, also in North Viet Nam, five Navy Skyhawks destroyed six buildings and damaged four others. Six other Skyhawks destroyed two buildings and damaged three others at a petroleum depot at Vinh.

Under security regulations, there were no details on the B52 attack, the 25th reported raid of the war by the big Guam-based jets of the Strategic Air Command. The other B52 raids have been mostly in Zone D, a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area.

Spokesmen reported that despite bad weather, U.S. and Vietnamese planes flew 171 missions.

Name Californian Chief License Clerk

Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes, chief license clerk with the Public Service Commission, Thursday was named assistant secretary to PSC. Mrs. Hughes has been with the Commission since Sept. 20, 1949, working in the bus and truck division. She will continue her present duties in addition to her new position.

Mrs. Hughes is a native of California, Mo., and still resides in that community. She is the daughter of Mrs. Laura Hart Jones, California, and the late Edgar B. Jones.

Mrs. Hughes received her elementary education in Independence, Mo., schools and is a graduate of St. Vincent's High School, Kansas City, Mo. She has one daughter, Mrs. William Park Tempel, Columbia, Mo.

sions against targets in South Viet Nam, hitting river shipping, fortified positions, supply areas and troop concentrations. The planes had been averaging about 290 missions a day earlier this week.

In the Da Nang area, 380 miles north of Saigon, U.S. Army helicopter gunners, taking part in a Vietnamese operation, killed four Viet Cong.

A tragic aside to the war claimed 39 lives when a Viet Nam commercial airliner crashed shortly after taking off from Quang Ngai, 300 miles north of Saigon. One American was among the dead. There were no survivors.

Two Sailors Are Killed In Auto Crash

SHOALS, Ind. (AP) — Two sailors driving home on leave from the East Coast were killed here Thursday when their car slammed into the front of a big truck.

State police said the driver apparently fell asleep.

Killed outright were the driver, Edward L. Bay, 18, Sedalia, Mo., and his lone passenger, Boris Karloff Echols, 31, Coolidge, Tex.

The truck driver, Eugene Gass, 57, Henderson, Ky., suffered minor injuries.

Authorities said both men were stationed aboard the USS Tidewater and apparently had driven all night from New York.

Seaman Bay was the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Bay, 408 East 19th, here. A 1964 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy in June following graduation. He had been stationed aboard the USS Tidewater since last September and the ship had been on a tour of duty to Naples, Italy.

His father said the Tidewater had just returned to the naval base at Norfolk, Va., and Seaman Bay was on his first leave since shipping out.

Surviving besides the parents are three brothers, Bernard, Steven and Robert, of the home; two sisters, Doreen and Diane, also of the home; and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bay, 252 North Woodlawn.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

UPROOTED—Winds which reached 50 m.p.h. downed numerous trees in Sedalia Wednesday night and some of the larger ones blocked traffic until city employees could get them cleared away. This tree was uprooted in the 1200 block of South Ohio.

AUTO STORM VICTIM—A late model car owned by Dorothy Swope, 1220 South Lamine, was heavily damaged across the front and top when this tree fell on it while the car was parked in the 100 block of East 13th Street Wednesday night. The tree also blocked traffic on 13th Street.

The Trees in My Home Town

Items in the 25 and 40 Years Ago column on this page have considerable personal interest to those who recall the incidents and names referred to from time to time.

Recently in the 25 Years Ago column there was an item about Patricia Benner, former Sedalia, who with her husband, Lou, are favorably remembered. Mrs. Benner in a magazine competition won first prize for a song lyric, "My Home Town." Friends of her husband remember him as quite agile with a fiddle.

The item brought recollections to many Sedalians of this delightful couple and, of course, queries about the lyric. Fortunately, Miss Eva Evans of Adco, Inc., still has a copy of the lyric which deals with a subject of current local concern—trees. It reads:

"Have you ever been to Sedalia?

Have you ever seen the fine trees
That burst forth in flame in the autumn?

If not, make of a note of it please,
Hard maples march proudly down Broadway,

Hard maples stroll over the town,
Clad in green, burnished gold and vermillion,

Each tree wears a bright damask gown.

If you've never been to Sedalia,
If you've never seen this array,
If you long for breath-taking beauty

You must come to Sedalia some day."

Twenty-five years later, if Pat knew what has and is happening to trees not only on Broadway but all over the city of Sedalia she would indeed mourn for the community's plight.

The city record today shows that Sedalia has lost 205 trees this year and 133 more are scheduled for removal. Most of them died this year of the Dutch elm disease, according to Councilman Walter Jesse, chairman of the street and alley committee, in his report to city council.

Coinciding with this revelation is a comment by a contemporary that "whenever we visit a city without trees we seldom wish to tarry, but want to get out of town as quickly as possible . . . the leafy community inspires a sense of well being, a feeling of hospitality instead of hostility."

There is nothing more ugly or indicative of indifference than a community in which there are few trees.

The importance of trees to a community cannot be underrated not only from the standpoint of their aesthetic value but also for the physical comfort they provide mankind.

It is disheartening to learn that the City of Sedalia doesn't have sufficient money allocated for the removal at this time of all diseased trees. Perhaps something will be done about this deficiency.

But of still more importance to the community is the hopeful inception of an organized program of planting and permanent care of trees, a project which has been suggested and talked about for decades.

For Pat's sake, let's get something done about it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Perplexed, Aiding India, Pakistan

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It was announced only this week, but last June President Johnson took a firm stand against sending any more military aid to the two nations now unofficially at war — India and Pakistan.

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan has let out a series of public blasts at this, and even the camel driver whom LBJ, when vice president, invited to the United States, has written a critical letter on his former host.

In India, Ambassador Chester Bowles has urged continued foreign aid. However, the President has stood pat.

"They say I'm inexperienced in foreign affairs," the President remarked to friends the other day, "but I don't need much experience to know not to send weapons to these two countries."

Prior to President Johnson's veto on further arms shipments, the United States had shipped a tremendous arsenal of tanks, fighter planes and bombers to Pakistan, with a far lesser amount to India. The exact amount of this aid is secret, and when Jack Anderson asked the Pentagon why the figures should not be available to the American taxpayers who foot the bill, the reply of one spokesman was: "It's classified because it's classified."

At the State Department a spokesman freely admitted that India has received $6,335,000,000 in economic aid with $3,067,000,000 going to Pakistan, up to this summer. The amount of military aid, he added sorrowfully, is strictly classified.

"It seemed a good idea," he said, "not to annoy one by telling how much we give to the other."

This column can reveal, however, that Pakistan has received close to $2 billion worth of military hardware since 1954 when John Foster Dulles first started the policy of building up Pakistan's military machine.

Despite the shroud of secrecy, this column can further reveal that Pakistan now has in active service 96 F-86 subsonic fighters, 25 B-57 light bombers, and 11 F-104 supersonic fighters, all gifts from the United States. It was impossible to ascertain the number of artillery pieces, small arms and transport planes we have sent to Pakistan, though the number of Patton tanks is around 70.

The Indians have received only $200,000,000 of U. S. military aid or one-tenth of what we have sent Pakistan.

Ironically, the Indians have also received some Migs from the Russians to defend themselves against China, despite the fact that the Russians and Chinese are supposed to be allies.

Meanwhile, India has demanded an explanation from U. S. Ambassador Bowles as to what the United States intends to do to stop the use of its weapons by Pakistan. The Pakistanis, in turn have protested in equally bristling language against the use of American-made weapons by the Indians.

U. S. officials, meanwhile, are waiting gloomily for the inevitable pictures of captured weapons that will be issued by both sides.

Foreign Policy By Generals

What has happened in the massive subcontinent of Asia is that Dulles in 1954 deliberately picked Moslem Pakistan as a belligerent nation which had supplied the backbone of the British Indian Army, so could train the best troops to help us contain China.

After Dulles had set this policy, it was more or less turned over to the Pentagon, and the U. S. military have pretty much dictated foreign policy in this area ever since.

The flood of arms into Pakistan made war with India almost inevitable, just as the shipment of arms to Latin-American countries has given the generals the means of staging revolution after revolution.

But what neither the American military nor the State Department foresaw was that China, the country we wanted to contain, would become the virtual ally of Pakistan.

This occurred when China invaded India, and the United States, trying to implement its policy of containing China, rushed fighter planes to India to help stop the Chinese onrush. It was not until that time, 1962, that we began sending any military aid to India.

The Pakistanis promptly saw red, immediately rushed into the bosom of China. A treaty was signed giving the Chinese special landing rights in Pakistan for a new air route to Africa. It is this air route which has enabled the Chinese to send thousands of agents, technicians and provocateurs down to Africa to stir up trouble against the West in the new African republics.

President Ayub Khan, who once charmed Congress in a special appearance before it, has since gone to Peking where he also charmed the Chinese.

The inescapable fact is that the U. S. policy of building up the military might of Pakistan just hasn't worked. It hasn't contained China. It has caused war with India. And the name of the United States today is mud in both countries.

Plan Carefully For A Trip With Baby

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you plan to travel with an infant under one year of age the question arises whether you should have your head examined or be given a medal. Some babies seem to be born travelers but they belong in the same category as hen's teeth and five-leaf clovers.

If you have the other kind, take him by jet if you can. Although you will have to feed, pacify and change him in public your trip will be mercifully short. Since the stewardess will barely have time to serve a meal before landing she won't be able to give you or your baby individual attention.

Travel by auto will give you more privacy but will take a lot longer unless the trip is under 150 miles. Breast feeding is still the best and most convenient but, if you have given up on that, you will really appreciate the ready-to-feed formulas now available in grocery and drug stores. The bottles are disposable and do not require refrigeration or warming. Let your baby get used to this preparation for 5 or 6 days before you start your trip — this means one less surprise for the little tyke.

If you carry along cans or jars of baby food, discard what he doesn't eat in one meal. Saving leftovers in your refrigerator is fine but on a trip with no refrigeration it is an open invitation to bacterial food poisoning.

Q — What would make a 7-month-old baby's eye water and the lids stick together in the morning?

A — Conjunctivitis in an infant is usually caused by infection with the pneumococcus, staphylococcus or streptococcus. If penicillin doesn't cure it a search for an allergy should be made.

Service

My job is one of service

In which I try to do
The things that the public,
I feel, expects me to.

Nobody ever questions

At what time ends my day
Or if, for what I'm asked to do,
I might get extra pay.

Nobody even wonders—

And I don't care at bit.

My job is one of service

And I'm mighty proud of it:

A sales girl was impatient

When I went in before.

To make a little purchase,

About time to close the store,
'Twas something that I needed

And I was late, you see.

Because I worked till nearly five

Instead of half past three—

Somebody had a story

But they found they would be late.

And so they called me on the 'phone

To ask me if I'd wait.

More than an hour I gave them.

With not a penny in it,
And yet the sales girl didn't want

To give an extra minute;

I'm always watching people

In their jobs everywhere

And I can tell the difference

In the ones who really care

And those who are so eager

For the ending of their day.

Only two things are important—

Closing time and lots of pay.

And for them I'm truly sorry

For they have never learned

The joy of giving service

For the money that is earned;

They know no dedication

And they've never felt the thrill

Of giving time and talent

In service or in skill.

They've never felt the challenge

Of a job they really love.

Not to merely do their duty

But to go beyond—above—

To consider not the pay check.

Just the job that they have chosen

To wear a friendly smile

And not a face that's frozen.

It's a privilege to serve

In any way your fellow man

It is such a satisfaction

When you do the best you can.

Sure, the boss may never notice,

For bosses you will find

Are just like the employees

Not all generous and kind,

But the smart ones know their people—

Know those dedicated,

And they always let them know

That they are appreciated;

But whatever the job is

If you've found the right one

It's a mighty happy feeling

To know that it's well done,

I wish I could inspire youth

Following now in any line

To love the kind of work they do

As much as I love mine.

The best players don't get the best results with every hand. Sometimes they make the best mistakes. No one is immune to that. Other times they stop at a low contract and a fortunate break of the cards reward overbidders who have gone higher and sometimes the best play does not gather in the maximum number of tricks.

Thus in the recent Brooklyn tournament most declarers arrived at four hearts although at a few tables South played at one heart only.

The better players made five odd because they all played the hand so as to guarantee their contracts. This safety play consisted of ruffing the first club; cashing one high heart and entering dummy with a second heart. Then the jack of spades was led and allowed to ride. West would win with his queen and either take his ace of diamonds right away or wait until later. That made no difference.

Those players who overlooked the safety play managed to make six. They ran off several rounds of trumps and then finessed successfully against West's queen of spades.

So as to forestall argument with many readers we refuse to comment on whether or not the South hand is worth a forcing two bid opening. Personally we have an open mind on that subject and have no criticism of either a one bid or two bid opening with this particular hand.

First Annual Fishing Derby Provides Fun Despite Rain

One Angler Takes Home Two Prizes

By LARRY EMBRY

"Rain, rain go away . . . the channel cats won't bite!"

We heard no one repeating this little chant, but it might well have been the byword of the 147 anglers who ignored muddy water to compete Monday in the Water Department's first Labor Day fishing derby at Springfork Lake south of town.

And we're certain it mirrors the thoughts of the city Board of Public Works, whose members went to special pains—and expense—to promote the first Springfork derby.

But while the channel catfish, as well as other species, weren't too cooperative, the derby drew a record number of fishermen who had a pleasant day to fish beneath cloudy skies.

Frank Russell, 117 East Broadway, was out early to start the derby like a lot of other fishermen, but went home shortly after noon when success was low. Before leaving he checked in a one-pound crappie and a 1½-pound bass.

He returned shortly before the 6 p.m. deadline for weighing-in derby catches and spent some anxious moments waiting out the clock. But no one came in with larger fish in the two species and his two catches netted him the Water Department's $10 prizes for the two species.

Thomas Jinks, 1902 East 14th, fared better and landed a 3½-pound channel cat to win the $10 prize for that species. Jinks' fish was apparently one of some 125 released a week before the derby and tagged. The fish had lost its tag, but bore the scar in the gill cover and Jinks was credited with a free day of fishing at the lake—the prize for landing a tagged fish.

Those nine - pounders, like board member Wm. H. Bunn was photographed lowering into the lake, are still at large, however, and their day on the stringer may come when the waters clear.

The water board planned the fishing derby after a record 132 fished the lake on July 5 during the Independence Day weekend.

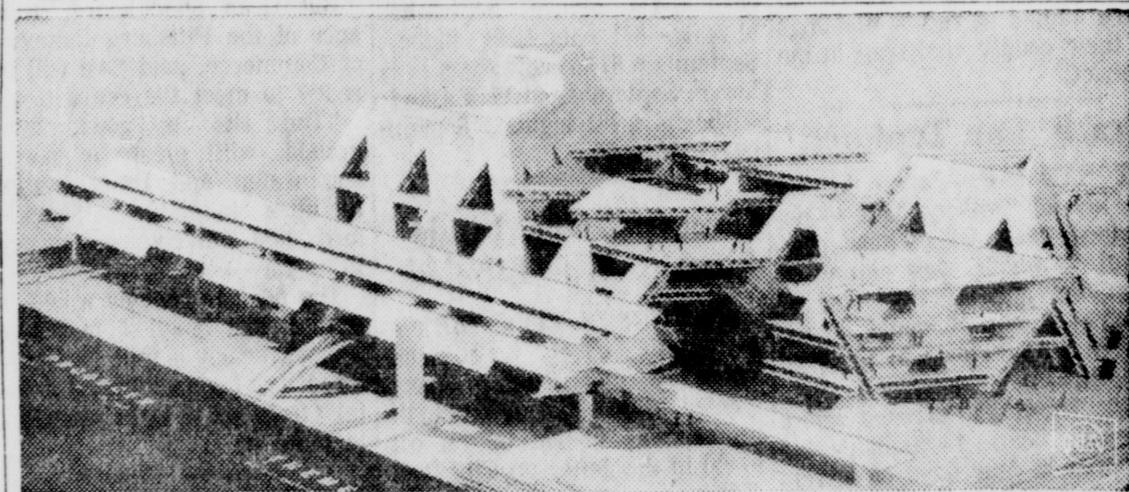

WINNING CHANNEL CAT — Thomas Jinks, 1902 East 14th, displays the 3½-pound channel catfish which won him a $10 prize in the Springfork Lake fishing derby. Waters were muddy and the fish was the best caught during the day. In a special release the week prior to Labor Day channel cats weighing up to nine pounds and better were tagged and freed in the lake.

A $20 WINNER — Frank Russell, 117 East Broadway, was lucky despite the muddy waters and landed the largest bass and crappie in the Springfork fishing derby. Here Russell, (left), checks over the results of the day's catch with Alvin Lumpe, caretaker at the lake. Russell's fish were good for two $10 prizes. Lumpe resides in the house overlooking Springfork Lake.

MONTREAL MODEL—The Man the Producer pavilion, one of the major theme buildings for the 1967 world exhibition at Montreal, Canada, will look like this model. Its structure based on "truncated tetrahedron" elements, the pavilion will stand on an island in the St. Lawrence River and will house exhibits illustrating man's advances in applied science.

FUN IN THE OVERFLOW—Springfork Lake was overflowing briskly Labor Day and a number of anglers tried their luck below the spillway. Here youngsters take a slow day of fishing lightheartedly and wade in the swift spillway water.

There were fish to be had below the spillway, though, and one small boy came in with a long string of perch just the right size to please a youngster.

Sand Spots Daily Menu In Viet Nam

CAM RANH BAY, South Viet Nam — (AP) — Take millions of tons of sand, stir in 5,000 American soldiers, season with a sprinkling of still more sand and simmer for one tour of duty at between 118 and 135 degrees.

That's the recipe for Cam Ranh Bay, the United States' unlabeled supply base in Viet Nam. Here is where the guns, planes, shells, gasoline and food will be unloaded for future battles against the Viet Cong in the central highlands.

Cam Ranh Bay's soldiers must be among the grittiest in the world. When a breeze blows in from the sea, sand is on the menu for supper, lunch and breakfast.

Fine, highly polished, buff-colored sand slithers into sleeping bags at night. Outside tents, it is loose and ankle-deep. Trucks and jeeps flounder up to their hubcaps.

Pfc. Robert A. Busby was trudging down a sand rut which the Army calls a road.

"Sand makes things rather difficult," he said with grave deliberation. Busby, who comes from Salt Lake City, Utah, was heading for chow at the top of a sand hillock where the 515th Light Truck Company has its tented cantonment.

Vietnamese have always shunned this place. Once it was a refuge for outlaws; later it was a penal colony.

Cam Ranh Bay was chosen because it is one of the world's finest natural harbors. Located on a long spit of sand jutting into a huge bay, it can be defended easily.

Ocean-going freighters can sail right up to a deep-water berth at a stone jetty. GIs already are unloading 50,000 tons of supplies each month.

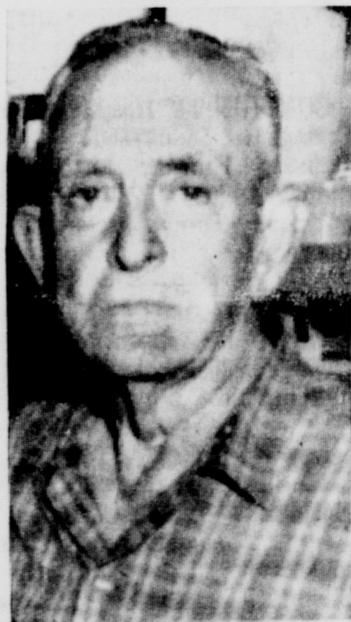

A floating pier being towed across the Pacific Ocean from the United States will more than double Cam Ranh Bay's supply capacity.

Acres of shifting dunes are being fenced off with barbed wire entanglements to serve as ammunition and fuel dumps. A new airfield will supplement the

Growth Of Industry Explained

How a local industry has become the largest one-way rental service in the United States was explained in a talk by Tom McCully, sales manager of Move Truck Rental System, Inc., before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker, who was introduced by Jack Shoemaker, program chairman, related the factors and American traits that had influenced the development of the rental system with Sedalia as its key point. This was not accomplished without encountering and solving many problems in the transportation field in all the states, in addition to establishment of 460 dealer outlets, maintenance program for transit repairs, investment of $2,000,000 in equipment which serves at present over 15,000 families changing residences.

McCully parenthetically emphasized the need for improved airport facilities in Sedalia in connection with his local industry's operation. Prospects for growth may ultimately result in 100 more employees being brought here, he stated.

Invocation was by Robert Horton. Singing was led by William Ward with Mrs. Lillian Maynard as accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to Abe Rosenthal.

Will Ask For Aid To Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Thursday he will ask Congress next year to approve U.S. assistance for education in developing nations as part of "a new and noble adventure" in learning.

Johnson unveiled his proposal amid the trappings and pageantry of an anniversary convocation at the Smithsonian Institution.

On the sunny mall in front of the nine-towered red building which was the institution's first home, Johnson declared:

"We mean to show that this nation's dream of a great society does not stop at the water's edge. It is not just an American dream. All are welcome to share in it. All are invited to contribute to it."

Johnson spoke to some 3,000 people, including scientists and scholars from around the world, at opening ceremonies of a three-day celebration marking the 20th anniversary of the birth of James Smithson.

An English chemist and Geologist who never saw the United States, he bequeathed this nation $508,000 to found "an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge."

Federal funds and other gifts have built it into a giant network of museums, laboratories, galleries and research projects.

Johnson recalled Smithson's bequest in telling of his own world-wide education proposal. He said the English scientist sought the spread of knowledge among all men, and declared that goal is more urgent now than ever before.

"For our part," he said, "this government and this nation is prepared to join in finding the way."

Columbia To Operate New Transit System

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The city of Columbia will begin operating a municipal transit system Monday, providing the first public bus service since February when a private transit system ended service.

Buses for the new system will be leased from the Bi-State Transit Authority of St. Louis.

The Columbia city council, which decided that it must choose between subsidizing a private transit system or establishing a municipal system, voted to put the city in the transit business because it felt that it might not have adequate control over a subsidized system.

Basic fares will be 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for children, with 75-cent weekly passes available for school children.
